SEEING DOUBLE

17 A magnificent liquidambar in the garden informed interior designer Amanda Lynn's tonal palette of copper and wood in this Melbourne kitchen. The room revamp saw the kitchen divided into two, with one area to cope with the 'breakfast crush' and the other dedicated to baking and cooking for the family of six. Hence, the kitchen has two of everything, including back-to-back fridges. "I love the symmetry," says the owner, "and the different tones of wood add richness."

MAKE AN ENTRANCE

18 Composition is key to this striking entrance in a renovated Melbourne home. Interior designer Lauren Li has utilised fine black steel framing to unite the space, adding turquoise accents for interest. "The entrance sets the tone for the house, with the furniture and lighting creating a sense of purpose and welcome," says Lauren. With a console to hold keys, a mirror for last-minute checks and a bench to sit on while taking off shoes, it's a beautifully functional space.
